1.- Types and uses

The service uses first and third-party cookies to improve navigation, provide the service and obtain statistics on the use of the website.

2.- What is a cookie and what is it for?

A cookie is a text file that is sent to the web browser of your computer, mobile phone or tablet and is used to store and retrieve information about the navigation carried out. For example, remembering your username and password or your profile preferences.

3.- What types of cookies are there?

Depending on who manages them:

- First party cookies; are sent to your browser from our computers or web domains.
- Third party cookies; They are sent to your browser from a computer or web domain that is not managed directly by us, but by a third party such as Google.

Depending on the time they are active, there are:

- Session cookies; They remain in your browser's cookie file until you leave the website, so none remain on your device.

- Persistent cookies; They remain on your device and our website reads them every time you visit again. These cookies stop working after a specific date.

Finally, and according to its purpose, we have:

- Technical cookies; They improve the navigation and proper functioning of the website.

- Personalization cookies; They allow access to the service with predefined characteristics based on a series of criteria.

- Analysis cookies; They allow us to measure and statistically analyze the use made of the service provided.
